New Inducements to Club Raisers and Single Subscribers.

OUR CASH PRIZES.

How To Obtain A War Library at Small Cost.

WATCHES AND KNIVES.

Grand Army Cards and Sleeve-Buttons--Some Novel Offers.

In offering a new premium list to our readers it may be well to say that THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE for 1884 will be a more interesting and able journal than it has been during the year that is now drawing to a close. The vast increase of circulation which it has enjoyed since the 1st of January last, and which places it, so far as the number of its subscribers is concerned, in the front rank of great American newspapers, leads us to believe that, with proper effort, a still larger circulation can be obtained for it, and sensible of the fact that to the high quality of its contents its success is chiefly due, we have decided to still further improve its character, sparing no expense to obtain for it the services of the most distinguished writers on military, agricultural, literary, scientific, and household subjects. With many of these—including Mr. C. C. Coffin ("Carleton"), of Boston, the famous historian and war correspondent—engagements have already been effected, and in an early number of THE TRIBUNE we shall publish a list of our contributors. Our readers will bear us witness that the increase in the literary attractions of THE TRIBUNE has fully kept pace with the growth of its circulation, and it is to-day the recognized authority on all matters that come within its purview. Notwithstanding the additional cost of publication which the introduction of these new features will entail, the price of THE TRIBUNE will not be advanced. It will remain at one dollar per year, and we entertain the hope, that, at the low rate at which it is offered, no one who is in any way interested in the objects to which it is devoted will be willing to be without it. Our experience has demonstrated the fact that in order to secure new subscribers, it is only necessary that the character of THE TRIBUNE should be brought to the personal notice of those who are unacquainted with its merits, and it is simply a question, therefore, of how and by whom its value should be made known to the general public. And the answer is obvious—evidently through and by those who are already subscribers and familiar with THE TRIBUNE's attractions. In order, therefore, that, in addition to the incentive to canvassing which the desire to make a journal of such pure and patriotic purposes as THE TRIBUNE as strong and powerful as possible is likely to create, they may have a material inducement to co-operate with us in the work of obtaining for THE TRIBUNE the universal circulation which it deserves, we have prepared the following premium list, in which we believe everybody will find something to his taste:

And first we offer the following SPECIAL PRIZES, to be paid in cash, or in articles of equivalent value, as the winners may direct.

I. For the largest club from any one Grand Army Post received prior to January 31, 1884,

A NEW POST OUTFIT

OF THE VALUE OF ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

The Post to which this prize is awarded will be permitted to name the articles—flags, books, gavel, altar, pictures, organ, &c.—which it desires to have purchased for it out of the prize of $100; or, if the comrades prefer, the cash will be paid instead, so that they may make the purchase themselves.

Out of the nearly, or quite, four thousand Posts in the G. A. R., there ought to be a large number of competitors for this prize, and it is by no means certain that the largest Post, numerically, will win the prize, since, as recently stated in our columns, out of the 123 members of the Post at Iola, Kan., 120 were secured as subscribers to THE TRIBUNE by a single active comrade.

II. For the largest club from any one Woman's Relief Corps, received prior to January 31, 1884,

A SUPERB CABINET ORGAN.

As everybody knows, it falls to the lot of the various Woman's Relief Corps to furnish the music at Post entertainments, concerts, camp-fires, festivals, &c., and nothing could be more useful, or would be more highly appreciated by the ladies, than the possession of a fine organ, with which to entertain the comrades of the G. A. R. at their social assemblies.

III. For the largest club, not made up of members of a single Post, received prior to January 31, 1884,

A VALUABLE LIBRARY

OF FIFTY VOLUMES,

Comprising the best military and standard publications. This competition is open to everybody, and the winner will be allowed to select other premiums of the same value, in case this is not acceptable.

IV. For the largest club received from any boy or girl, under the age of twenty years, prior to January 31, 1884,

A YOUTH'S LIBRARY

OF FIFTY VOLUMES.

The winner of this prize will be allowed to choose, within certain limits, the books which he or she may wish to be included in the library—stories, poems, tales of travel, text-books, or standard works, as may be preferred.

We have selected the above as our special prize premiums, because they really afford a greater return for the money than any other that we could offer, and because the rates at which we offer other articles, in our regular list of premiums, are so low that any one can afford to buy them.

REGULAR PREMIUMS.

I. BOOKS.

Believing that our readers are more deeply interested in the literature of the war than anything else, we have made arrangements with the leading publishers, whereby we are enabled to offer all the best war publications in connection with subscriptions to THE TRIBUNE, at a price far below that at which they can be had anywhere else.

First of these may be mentioned Scribner's "Campaigns of the Civil War," and "The Navy in the Civil War," as follows:

CAMPAIGNS OF THE CIVIL WAR.

XII.—The Virginia Campaign of '64 and '65. The Army of the Potomac and the Army of the James. By Andrew A. Humphreys, Brigadier-General and Bvt. Major-General U. S. A., late Chief of Engineers, Chief of Staff, Army of the Potomac, 1863-'64; commanding Second Corps, 1864-'65, &c., &c.

Statistical Record of the Armies of the United States. By Frederick Phistner, late Captain U. S. A.

This Record includes the figures of the quotas and men actually furnished by all States; a list of all organizations mustered into the United States service; the strength of the army at various periods; its organization in armies, corps, &c.; the divisions of the country into departments, &c.; the chronological list of all engagements, with the losses in each; tabulated statements of all losses in the war, with the causes of death, &c.; full lists of all general officers, and an immense amount of other valuable statistical matter relating to the war.

Gettysburg to the Rapidan. The Army of the Potomac July, 1863, to April, 1864. By General Andrew Humphreys.

THE NAVY IN THE CIVIL WAR.

I.—The Blockade and the Cruisers. By Professor J. Russell Soley, U. S. Navy.

II.—The Atlantic Coast. By Rear-Admiral Daniel Ammen, U. S. Navy.

III.—The Gulf and Inland Waters. By Commander A. T. Mahan, U. S. Navy.

Any one of the above books will be sent as a premium for a club of six subscribers, two books for twelve subscribers, three books for fifteen subscribers, four books for twenty subscribers, five books for twenty-five subscribers, six books for thirty subscribers, seven books for thirty-five subscribers, eight books for forty subscribers, nine books for forty-five subscribers, ten books for fifty subscribers—a Post Library in itself; or, to any person sending us $1 for a subscription to THE TRIBUNE, either for himself or anybody else, we will send any one of these volumes on receipt of sixty cents in addition to the subscription. The regular price of these books is $1 each.

OTHER MILITARY BOOKS.

Swinton's Campaigns of the Army of the Potomac.

This is universally admitted to be the most accurate, picturesque, and impartial history of the war in the East that has ever been written. It is a volume of 660 pages, and is illustrated with portraits of Generals McClellan, Grant, Hooker, Burnside, and Meade, and maps of all the principal battlefields. In a letter to the author concerning his work, General Hancock says:

"I have read your 'History of the Army of the Potomac,' and consider it the most valuable contribution to the military history of the war that has yet appeared in print. By one who has been so long identified with that army as myself it can readily be perceived that you have endeavored to write the truth, and I believe that the Army of the Potomac has been fortunate in its historian, and that your army of facts will not hereafter be surpassed in accuracy."

We will send a copy of this valuable work to any address on receipt of a club of twenty new subscribers or on receipt of one subscription to THE TRIBUNE and $2 additional. The regular retail price of the book is $3.

Capturing a Locomotive. By the Rev. Wm. Pittenger.

This is one of the most entrancing stories of the war that ever was written. It describes an attempt made by a body of picked Union soldiers to capture the railroad from Atlanta, Ga., to Chattanooga, Tenn., burn the bridges on their way north and prevent reinforcements from reaching the Confederate armies operating against General Mitchell. The party actually succeeded in capturing a train a few miles north of Atlanta, but were pursued by the Confederates in another engine, and their experiences were of the most exciting and thrilling character. The story is splendidly written, and contains, among other things, a most faithful description of life in Southern prisons. It is a true story in every respect, and all the facts are on official record.

We will send "Capturing a Locomotive" as a premium to any person sending us eight new subscribers, or will mail it, post free, to any person sending us one subscription to THE TRIBUNE and sixty cents additional. The retail price of the book is $1.50.

Roster of All Regimental Surgeons and Assistant Surgeons in the late war, with their service and last known post-office address, compiled from official records for the use of the United States Pension Office. This book should be in the hands of every ex-soldier, and especially every applicant for a pension; for it cannot fail to be of the greatest assistance in the proving of their claims. But two thousand copies, in all, of this work have ever been printed, and of these one thousand was purchased by the Pension Office. The other thousand have been bought by THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE, which has thereby secured entire control of the sale of the book. We will furnish a copy to any person who will send us a club of ten subscribers.

Alphabetical List of the Battles of the War of the Rebellion, with dates compiled from the official records of the offices of the Adjutant-General and Surgeon-General, and adopted by the Pension Bureau, Second Auditor, Third Auditor, and Second Comptroller of the Treasury Department. It makes a volume of nearly one hundred pages, and contains, in addition to the information already mentioned, the number of killed, wounded, and missing in each battle on both sides, total number of enlistments and casualties, chronology of all American wars, including that with Mexico, and a list of Presidents and Vice-Presidents of the United States, from Washington down. We will send this valuable book to any address, postage prepaid, on receipt of twenty-five cents, or to the getter-up of a club of two subscribers.

The Minor Wars of the United States. A series of popular histories fully illustrated and attractively bound in cloth.

I. The War of 1812. By Rossiter Johnson.

II. The Old French War. By Rossiter Johnson.

III. The War with Mexico. By H. O. Ladd.

IV. King Philip's War. By Richard Markham.

To any person who will send us ten new subscribers to THE TRIBUNE we will mail a copy of any one of these histories of the Minor Wars of the United States that he may select, or on receipt of one new subscription to THE TRIBUNE and seventy-five cents additional. The regular price of each is $1.25.

Abbott's American Pioneers and Patriots. By the celebrated historian, Jno. S. C. Abbott.

A series illustrating the early history and settlement of America; each volume fully illustrated and handsomely bound in black and gold. The series includes the following volumes:

Columbus and the Discovery of America.

De Soto, the Discoverer of the Mississippi.

La Salle: His Discoveries and Adventures with the Indians of the Northwest.

Miles Standish, the Captain of the Pilgrims.

Captain Kidd and the Early American Buccaneers.

Peter Stuyvesant and the Early Settlement of New York.

Benjamin Franklin and the Struggles of our Infant Nation.

George Washington and the Revolutionary War.

Daniel Boone and the Early Settlement of Kentucky.

Kit Carson, the Pioneer of the Far West.

Paul Jones, the Naval Hero of the Revolution.

David Crockett and Early Texas History.

We will mail a copy of any one of these volumes as a premium to anyone who will send us ten new subscribers, or on receipt of one new subscription to THE TRIBUNE and seventy-five cents additional. The regular price is $1.25 each.

FOR THE RISING GENERATION.

"CARLETON'S" BOOKS.

Unquestionably the most interesting series of books to the rising generation that are now in print are those of Mr. Charles Carleton Coffin, who, during the entire rebellion, was the war correspondent of the Boston Journal, and who is now one of our regular contributors. This series embraces four volumes, and a fifth will soon be added.

The first, which is entitled "The Story of Liberty," traces in the most charming and delightful style the progress of free ideas and the growth of free institutions from the day when, on the meadows of Runnymede, the Barons wrested from King John the Magna Charter, down to the days of Bradford and the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers on the shores of New England.

The second volume, which is entitled "Old Times in the Colonies," describes the settlement of America, traces the development of the revolutionary spirit, and brings the history of the country down to the Declaration of Independence.

The third volume, which is entitled "The Boys of 1776," contains the story of the Revolution, told in the most picturesque language, and, while absolutely accurate from a historical point of view, is unencumbered with prosy dissertations.

The fourth volume is entitled "Building the Nation," and brings the history of this country down to the outbreak of the civil war. It traces the progress of civilization in the United States, the course of invention, the growth of free institutions, the evolution of politics, and clearly defines and estimates at their proper value the influences that have moulded us into a Nation.

Each of these books is magnificently illustrated, and the engravings are all of the most superior character. The retail price of these volumes is $3 each, but we have made arrangements to offer them as premiums to our subscribers on the following terms:

I. Any one of these four volumes for a club of twenty subscribers.

II. Any one of these four volumes for one new subscription and $2 additional.

OTHER BOOKS FOR YOUNG FOLKS.

Recollections of a Drummer Boy. By Harry M. Keiffer.

This is one of the most charming and stirring narratives of the war that has ever been published. Mr. Keiffer enlisted as a drummer boy in the One Hundred and Fiftieth Pennsylvania in the second year of the war, and served with his regiment to its close.

He is an extremely entertaining writer, and his description of the camp, the march, and the battlefield are wonderfully life-like. The book has passed through several editions, and is equally interesting to young and old folks.

The retail price of this book is $1.50, but we have made arrangements to offer it as a premium to our subscribers on the following terms:

I. For a club of ten new subscribers.

II. For one new subscription and $1 additional.

The Hoosier School Boy. By the Rev. Edward Eggleston.

"The Hoosier School Boy" is one of the most interesting stories for young folks that this popular author has ever written. The scene is laid in Indiana, and the local coloring is very vivid. The picture which Mr. Eggleston gives of school days in Indiana, a generation ago, is extremely fascinating, and we venture to say that no lad who begins this book will be able to lay it down until he has finished it.

The retail price of the book is $1.50, but we have made arrangements to offer it as a premium on the following terms:

I. For a club of ten new subscribers.

II. For one new subscription and $1 additional.

E. P. Roe's Novels.

Pure in tone and fascinating in style.

One of the most, if not the most, popular novelists of the day is the Rev. E. P. Roe. His works are all pure in theme and characterized by profound feeling and brilliant analysis of character. Indeed, they are perhaps the most fascinating of all modern American novels, and thousands of copies have been sold. Mr. Roe's latest story, his "Sombre Rivals," has already run through several editions, and the demand continues to be greater than the supply.

The following is a list of his novels:

Barriers Darned Away. 12mo. Cloth.

What Can She Do? 12mo. Cloth.

The Opening of a Chestnut Burr. 12mo. Cloth.

Near to Nature's Heart. 12mo. Cloth.

From East to West. 12mo. Cloth.

A Knight of the XIXth Century. 12mo. Cloth.

A Face Flummied. 12mo. Cloth.

A Day of Fate. 12mo. Cloth.

Without a Home. 12mo. Cloth.

His Sombre Rivals. 12mo. Cloth.

Any of these charming novels will be mailed to the sender of a club of ten new subscribers, or on receipt of one subscription to THE TRIBUNE with $1 additional. The regular price of each is $1.50.

Books for Farmers and Business Men.

For the special benefit of farmers and business men we have made arrangements with the publishers to offer, as premiums, the following valuable books:

I. Revised Edition of Scribner's Lumber and Log Book, enlarged, improved and illustrated.

This is the most full and complete book of useful tables and information about lumber and logs, and has had larger sales than all combined books of its kind ever published. It is recognized by old sawmill men and lumber dealers throughout the United States as the standard book. Nearly a million copies have been sold.

II. The following is the table of contents: Multiplication Table; Log-Logging in Winter; Hints to Lumber Dealers, &c.; Loading Logs on a Wagon, with cut; Tables of Measure; Circular Scantling Table; An Adjustable Saw Buck, and cut; Board Measure; Plank Measure; Square Timber; No. of Pieces per 1,000 Feet; Cubic Measure; Properties of Woods; Dry Rot; Marking Timber; Circular Contents of Round Timber; Contents of Standard Saw Logs; Doyle's Log Table; Number Feet Long to Make 1,000 Feet; Price per Foot of Standard Logs; Stave and Heading Bolt Table; Accurate Wood Measure; Price of Wood per Cord; Table of Weights; Table of Board, Bent, &c.; Strength of Ice, &c.; Table—Specific Gravity and Weight of Woods; Removing Rust from Saws, and Recipes; Table of Speed of Circular Saws, Power Required, for Same; Weight of Loads; A Convenient Wood Holder; Fence Board Table; Cross Ties; Grade per Mile; Bricks, Chimneys; Frame Timber; Size of Nails; Cost of Fences; Hardness of Woods; Weight of Cord Wood; Table of Strength of Ropes; Strength of their Durability; Growth of Trees; Cord Wood on an Acre; How to Saw Valuable Timber; Well-Seasoned Fuel; Shape of an Axe; Woodsmen and Axes; The Wedge; Beech Tree Leaves; Splitting Rails; Charcoal.

III. Fisher's Grain Tables. Revised and improved.

This book contains 200 pages in small pocket form, and gives over 20,000 different calculations of grain, computed at sixty pounds to the bushel, showing the price per bushel and pound from ten cents to two dollars. Also, tables showing how many bushels of different kinds of grain (weighing thirty-two, forty-eight, fifty-six, fifty-eight, sixty, and sixty-two pounds per bushel) there is in a given number of pounds, from thirty-two to 6,000 pounds—together with a complete ready reckoner, showing how much any number of articles, pounds, bushels, or yards, will come to, from one article to 500, from one quarter of a cent and upwards. This part of the book will be found very useful for small traders and these unaccustomed to casting up figures. Also, hay tables, showing how much 100 pounds or more of hay will come to from $4 to $20 per ton. Hay rule, for finding price per ton. Tables for finding the number of bushels of grain in boxes and bins, quantity of hay in a stack or mow. Tables giving the number of pounds of different kinds of grain in a bushel in different States. Tables of interest, wages, rent, and board, by the day, week, and month, cost of raising pork, feeding stock. Plowing tables, wheat, flour, and meal table. Nutrient of food. Cost of various kinds of fences, capacity of corn, shrinkage of grain, comparison of green and dry wood, accurate wood measure, strength of ropes, directions about painting, brief maxims on business and law, besides a large number of miscellaneous tables and useful matter.

We will mail either of these books to any address on receipt of a club of three new subscribers to THE TRIBUNE, or will furnish either on receipt of one new subscription to THE TRIBUNE and thirty cents additional. The regular price is forty cents each.

HOUSEHOLD AND FLORAL BOOKS.

Helps in Woman's Work.

I.—Ladies' Guide to Needlework. A handbook of all the various kinds of needlework, edited by Annie Frost, giving minute directions, aided by more than 100 illustrations, for knitting, crocheting, &c.

128 pages, nearly 100 illustrations, cloth-bound.

II.—Artistic Embroidery. Every lady interested in the ornamental branches of needlework will appreciate the practical directions for its artistic effects which are given in this work, the design of which is to show the best and easiest methods of undertaking this branch of art, which the writer does from her own experience with the aid of nearly 200 illustrations and explanatory designs.

132 pages, 200 illustrations, cloth-bound.

III.—Household Hints and Recipes. This is not a cook-book, but is devoted to housekeeping topics, and contains a great amount of information about housework, and recipes which are the result of personal experience of the editors, and as such are intended to be reliable and trustworthy. Its suggestions on the best way to arrange the spring house-cleaning contain many ideas that are valuable to all housekeepers.

150 pages, cloth-bound.

IV.—Every Woman Her Own Flower Gardener. This delightful little work upon outdoor gardening for ladies is full of useful information for laying out flower borders, ribbon beds, and the arrangement of ornamental plants, selection of seeds for the annuals and perennials, and the best time for sowing and pruning.

145 pages, cloth-bound.

V.—Household Elegancies. Of the many points of interest which this volume contains, one of its most attractive features will doubtless be its complete description of the manner of making and arranging phantom leaves. These directions taken alone are well worth the price of the book; the instructions given are minute, and are rendered very clear by the illustrations.

300 pages, 288 illustrations, cloth-bound.

VI.—Ladies' Fancy Work. This is intended as a companion volume to "Household Elegancies," containing, as its title indicates, hints and helps to home tastes and recreations, and is prepared by the same authors. It describes very minutely the manner of making wax flowers, giving directions for over fifty varieties with illustrations and patterns. Hand-work is another interesting pursuit, having twenty-five different designs; also its feather ornaments, as many beautiful articles can be made from peacock feathers and the plumage of our native birds.

300 pages, 350 illustrations, cloth-bound.

VII.—Beautiful Homes. This work is written with the desire to assist the perplexed housekeeper in the most tasteful way of furnishing her house, so that it shall not be merely a show-room, but possess an individuality of its own which will make it as entirely distinct as human character, believing that judicious and intelligent selection are required to arrange one's house so that it will not offend the critical eye of the truly artistic. The rules which govern these directions being: 1st, beauty of form; 2d, harmonious combination of color; 3d, the fitness of each article of furniture for its special office and the adaptation and appropriateness of each ornament for the particular purpose to which it is applied.

314 pages, 320 illustrations, cloth-bound.

VIII.—Evening Amusements. It is very important that our young people be made to prize the home and find in it so many pleasures that outside enjoyments, which tend to lead them into paths full of temptations, shall have no attractions, when hands and brains have been busy through the day, some relaxation and merry-making is needed, which, harmless in itself, shall prove a source of enjoyment to all participants, both old and young. This work is well adapted to supply the need for ways of accomplishing this, as it is comprised of more than 100 festive games adapted to both children and the older members of the home.

350 pages, cloth-bound.

IX.—Window-Gardening. Treats of the general management of window-gardens, kinds of window-boxes and stands best adapted to plants, the soil required, how and when to water, &c., soil and fertilizers best adapted to them. It has directions for making propagating-boxes, heating cases and cold frames, and gives a carefully selected list of only such plants for furnishing window-boxes and stands as are recommended by long experience, and which are distinguished for masses of flowers, fine leaves, interesting habits and easy cultivation.

300 pages, 250 illustrations, cloth-bound.

Any one of the first five books in this list will be sent as a premium for ten new subscribers, or for one subscription and 75 cents additional. Price, without subscription, $1.

Any one of the others will be sent as a premium for ten new subscribers, or for one subscription and $1 additional. Price, without subscription, $1.50.

KNIVES.

CHEAP, DURABLE, AND HANDSOME!

Among the articles which we offer as premiums are four splendid knives, made for us by one of the most celebrated manufacturers in the country, and warranted to be precisely as represented. We have sold thousands of these during the past year, and in no case has any complaint been made of the quality or character of the goods. We offer them as follows:

I. Three-bladed pruning and budding knife for a club of ten subscribers, or without subscription, $1 each.
